Superintendent's Corner

Dear members,

Daylight savings means more time for golf! If any of you have been watching The Player's Championship, and the weather they have been dealing with at TPC Sawgrass, you'll know what to look forward to for this week's weather around here. Wind and rain are in the forecast.

We will be turning on water this week starting Tuesday the 15th, so be prepared to run into some of our crew out on the course as we test zones and get our system up and running. Some of you have probably noticed the red lines around our bunkers. We have been working on edging them back to their original perimeters and reshaping their contour. This will help them to not only look crisper and more professional but will also affect their playability to be truer to golf standards. Feel free to play out of them as usual, just be aware that they are in a state of reconstruction. As for the greens, they have had their first fertilizer of the year applied so they may be rolling a bit slower this week because the fertilizer can add some grip to the surface. Enjoy your time on the course. Thank you.
